Pools Like People Need Health Insurance

THESE PLANTS will help keep your Pool clean and add to its Beauty and Interest

FISH PLANTS, or Oxygenating Plants

Fish plants or oxygenating plants (so called because they liberate free oxygen into the water) are important in any pool planting. These underwater plants help in keeping the water clear and the fish and scavengers in good health. Goldfish like to spawn on the floating roots and leaves and the young fry hide amongst the leaves. Plant them in pots or boxes by themselves or with the lilies.

Tropical BLUE TRIUMPH—King of Blue Waterlilies

Have These Gorgeous Plants in Full Flower Before Those Purchased Elsewhere Have Even Started

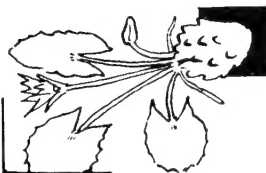

BLUE TRIUMPH

The Easiest Water Lily of All to Grow

2-Year-OLD PLANTS

Only Johnson Can Supply Them

This glorious day blooming tropical lily is our great specialty and we take particular pride in the vigorous flowering plants we supply. These plants are 2 years old and have the size, strength, and hardiness that only 2-year-old plants can have. Remember, they produced scores of blossoms last summer, each from 6 to 12 inches in diameter and that when you receive them they are almost always starting into full bloom. Observe in the photo on the right the husky rhizome it bears, like that of a Hardy Lily, which enables it to get started in your pool with no loss of time even if the weather should turn cold and stormy after planting. Have these gorgeous plants in full flower before those purchased elsewhere are even started! They are a sight worth traveling far to see with their great, dark, purple-blue blossoms incredibly as large as dinner plates. They bloom freely in the small pool with flowers in proportion. During the summer these plants often split up into several crowns each of which will flower as freely as the mother plant.

Note the strong woody rhizome our 2 year old plants bear. This is what gives them their vigor and early flowering qualities.

It requires a year of growth to produce this type of rhizome which during the second year often branches into several crowns for you. You will enjoy these extra flowering crowns.

Our Special 2-year-old Blue Triumph, each.....$3.50

Blue Triumph growing in the pool of Mrs. C. M. Ronston of Farmington, Ill. Note its freedom of flowering as well as its moderate growth.

TROPICAL WATER LILIES will lift your garden pool out of the ordinary—make it the envy of your friends, the talk of the neighborhood. Yielding prodigiously of their bright-hued flowers, even one plant will quicken your enthusiasm.

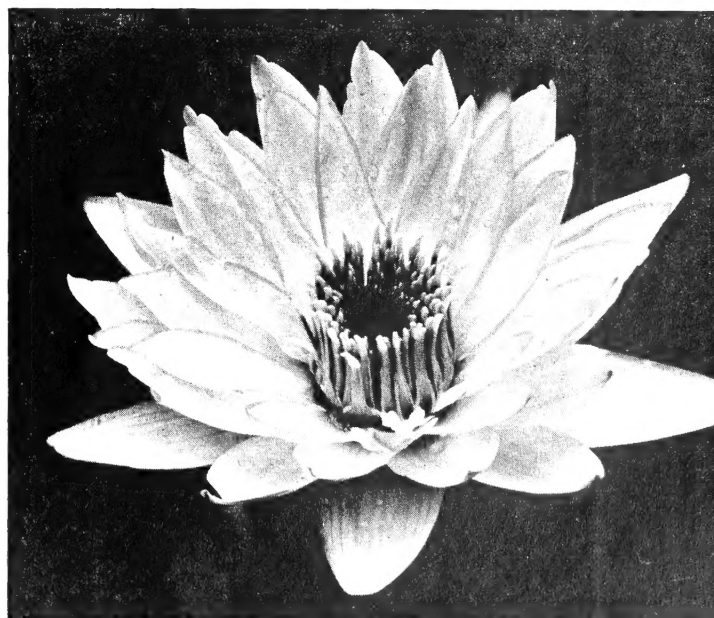

They grow with lush freedom as spring weather becomes settled and warm, and are in bloom almost from the day they are planted until the frosts of autumn.

To fit the small pool they may be readily dwarfed by planting in small boxes (15 inches across), where they will flower just as freely but proportionate as to size. With room to develop they reach a size and grandeur few other plants ever attain.

Our friends, Mr. and Mrs. Burns of Maui, Territory of Hawaii, are certainly enjoying their pool! We can at least vicariously enjoy their wonderful climate. Tropical Nightblooming Waterlilies in the foreground of the pool, Hardy Waterlilies towards the back, and Umbrella Palm and Egyptian Papyrus in the background form a charming pool. Note the number of buds on the Nightblooming Waterlilies. There is no lovelier sight than their elegant white, pink, or red blossoms opening at dusk and remaining open until late the next morning.

VENUSTA
Fragrant Waterlily, $2.25

CHARMING TRIO - Collection P 4

This is an excellent selection for a very small pool. Venusta, a hardy waterlily, is a pure unblemished pink with a delicious fragrance. The dark, almost mahogany leaves seldom grow above the water. Water Poppy is considered one of the finest of the small aquatics. In habit and appearance it is like a small waterlily with citron yellow blossoms and floating leaves. Water Hyacinth, so well known, it hardly needs introduction, is a floating plant with bladder-like leaves and lovely spikes of blue flowers. Its feathery roots are a favorite with gold fish to lay their eggs on. These three splendid plants shipped postpaid for $2.50

Our tropical waterlilies are given special care to insure that they reach you in perfect condition for planting. They are first started in greenhouse tanks during cool weather and as it becomes warmer outside they are shifted to outside tanks where they are gradually hardened off. This enables them to withstand changes in temperature while they are establishing themselves in your pool. Almost all of the plants have 2 to 3 buds, and sometimes more, on each plant when ready for shipment. Packed in special cartons we guarantee them to reach you in perfect planting condition.

Tropical waterlilies must never be planted out too early. Our warm spring and summer weather will produce luxuriant plants hardly equalled in their native haunts. However, care must be exercised not to plant them out until warm, settled weather is assured. You may send your order for tropical lilies at any time and we will ship at the proper planting time for your locality. For approximate shipping dates consult the order blank insert.

Exotic Night Blooming Waterlilies

Enjoy them from Dusk to Late Morning

With their huge blossoms up to 10 inches across and often dark colored leaves with scalloped edges. Nightblooming waterlilies are perhaps the most striking of all waterlilies. The name "nightblooming" often scares people away, but bear in mind that they open at dusk and remain open until late the next morning—often until 10 or 11 o'clock. Their colors range from pure white to varying shades of pink and red. The stamens form a cone about the center of the flower and are yellow or mahogany according to the color of the flower. The flowers open out very flat. The leaves are usually pale green in the white varieties and light mahogany to deep almost black, maroon in the pink and red varieties. All of the leaves are beautifully scalloped.

Although Nightbloomers are natives of India they reach perfection in our warm summer days and nights. As with the other tropicals they must not be planted out too early. We will ship them to you at the proper planting time for your locality. You will find approximate shipping dates on order blank insert.
